Co-production

Jayne Vincent and Michelle Angelsea spoke about the New Co-production Consultation and Engagement Framework that sets out standards for all engagement activities.

Working with People First Merseyside and the Improving Information Group a guide for staff on how to work in a way that supports coproduction has been developed copies are available on the council website

I Statements

Eight 'I' statements are used to monitor engagement and coproduction. These statements are the commitments made by the council to ensure that people are involved in decision making, that will impact on them and those they care for. Evidence of the impact of Coproduction is gathered and the guide includes an evaluation tool

Our Co-production Commitment - 'I' statements.

Short Term Assessment Unit

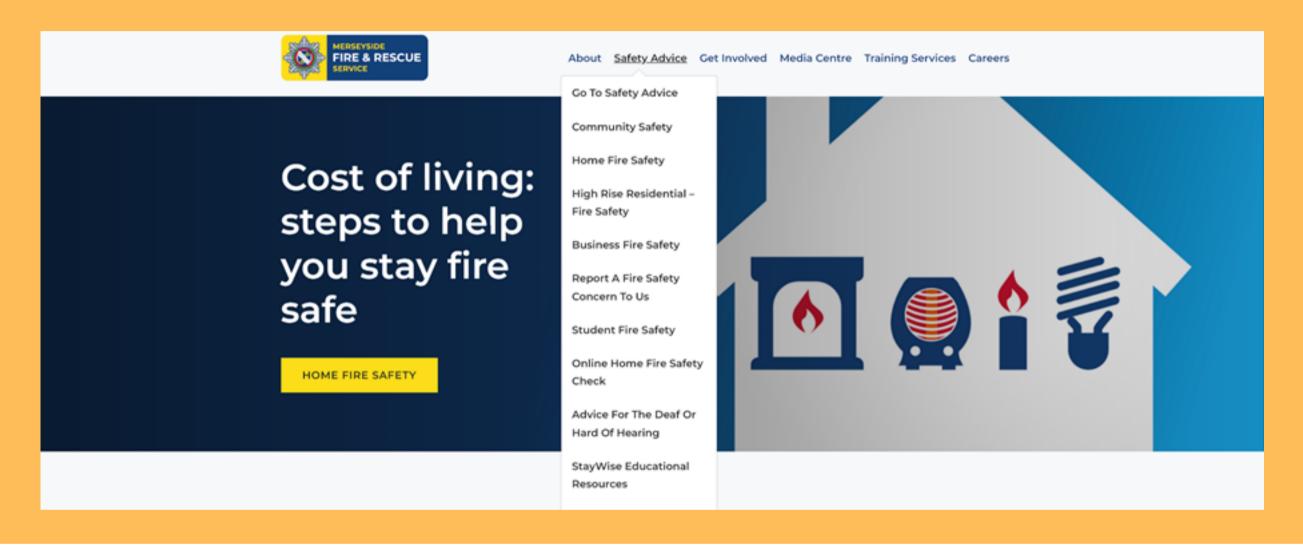

The development of the short term assessment unit at Sandbrooks has progressed using co-production methods. Evidence of process is available on Sefton Councils website. The discussions are currently looking at the care provider contract

The STAU is only one part of a bigger development in Ainsdale which will include additional support housing. If you would like to be included in the conversation please contact Jayne and Michelle

If you have examples of co-production you would like to share Jayne and Michelle would be pleased to hear from you. We need to celebrate the good work that takes place in sefton

A Cultural Statargy for Sefton at 50

Sefton Council and partners are developing a cultural strategy for the Borough.

David Eddy Localities Team Manager talked about the development of a better understanding of culture in Sefton. At the heart of the strategy is a desire to raise the profile of Sefton

David would be interested in the ways we can work together to strengthen the relationship between health and cultural activities.

At The Library Programmer is a good example of an initiative that has brought health benefits. Could more art and cultural activities be social prescriptions for better health outcomes? David.Eddy@sefton.gov.uk

Culture is about more than buildings, its about: Connecting People Tackling Health Inequalities Building Confidence Use green and Blue to improve health Champions the creative sector Set up a framework for collaboration engaging young people For more information contact: 2025 Borough of Culture David.Eddy@sefton.gov.uk
